Présentation

Between Bocage and Suisse Normande, the gîte is part of a group of buildings formerly dedicated to agriculture, entirely restored in accordance with old techniques and materials: wood, cob, lime, hemp, etc. Initially, the Bergerie site was just a 6,000 m2 pasture with the half-timbered buildings of the old ruined 18th century farm and only a few fruit trees. It has become the playground of Sylvie, passionate about flowers and colors, and her husband Frédéric who have completely shaped the place by creating a magnificent lush and colorful garden, where everyone will find their privacy, tranquility and space. . Fresh air, walks and rest await you: a real disconnection from the worries of the modern world! Old detached house near the owners. Ground floor: living room (Wi-Fi web access included, TNT), kitchen, WC. Floor: 1 bedroom (1 double bed 160 x 200 cm), 1 bedroom (2 single beds, extra child's bed), bathroom/WC. Electric heating. Terrace, open English-style garden with trees and swings.
